

Let's Do Theology

Laurie Green

'Read this book. It is simple, direct, practical and wise.'

The Right Reverend Colin R. Johnson, Anglican Bishop of Toronto

*'I am amazed at Bishop Laurie's wealth of biblical and theological understanding...
A "must read".'*

Dr. P.Mohan Larbeer, Dalit activist theologian, Principal of Tamilnadu Theological Seminary, India

'It is a book that invites you to do theology, without disparaging the great tradition. Additionally it provides a good summary of conventional theology and an excellent bibliography. I enthusiastically recommend this significant little book.'

Leonardo Boff, Liberation Theologian, Brazil

'Theological resources from Scripture onward were never meant to be hoarded. With generous and accessible hospitality Green offers this valuable gem of a book to the whole people of God.'

Fredrica Harris Thompsett, Professor of Historical Theology, Episcopal Divinity School, Cambridge, MA

Let's Do Theology is the key text for all who wish to do theology in an exciting and transformative way. Accessible and practical, whilst at the same time addressing the key questions about the nature and challenges of theology, this book will enable new readers to bring together their faith and their life's issues, and also help students of theology face the challenge of how academic theology can be life-transforming.

Laurie Green studied in London and New York prior to seventeen years in challenging parish ministry. He spent seven years training women and men for ordained ministry before being made Bishop in the Church of England. He has taught around the world, and two of his books, including Urban Ministry and the Kingdom of God have been awarded book of the year status by the Church Times.

'Laurie Green's experience as teacher, pastor and agent for God's change informs every page of this accessible and challenging book ... a new and extensively revised edition which makes full use of developments in theological reflection and cultural understanding in the last two decades, and it retains all its freshness, insight and sheer groundedness in the reality of God's people working for God's Kingdom.'
